A few weeks ago, a woman from the Oxford organisation came to our school to talk to us about music.

The speech was very interesting. We could learn many things about the progression of the music during the last century, from the old rock legends to the latest pop stars.

Personally, I really enjoyed it, and I think that it was a great chance to let us know more about a topic that is in our daily life. If I had to change something, I would add a little more interaction between the lecturer and the public, but apart from that, I have no objections. It was a great experience and another way to listen to English!
